On the menu it should clearly show where you are. If you are not on any of the 'main' pages, you can see where you are by looking at the breadcrumbs underneath the menu. These are also clickable, so you have the opportunity to go back one step.

Example on illustrating that you are on the homepage:

The activities have been divided into three categories: My activities, awaiting/pending and finished activities.

Awaiting and finished are not shown unless the user 'expands' them to see them, in order to make a more simple and less overwhelming view.
